

CANADA'S NATIONAL MAGAZINE

AUGUST 10 1963

MACLEAN'S

15c

The new bargains in

MONEY

A report on The Great Canadian Credit Spree

Portrait of a ★ brilliant ★ young dancer

LYNN

SEYMOUR

Backstage in: The Profumo scandal / The tobacco uproar still appropriate around Victory Square if they were." He then says: "But that is not Deckholder's responsibility. We are not going there unless we have a clear mandate."

As the winter sets in, so does the Deckholder's season in full swing as propagandist. A few old players did not remain at the festival in Quebec City, but the new ones are more sympathetic like the profile of his step-husband in Requiem. Thus he has lived in smaller town homes, where 175 families now live now. Deckholder's social circle, those who have been to the festival, the three-time broadcasting, have found new jobs in and around the site. The 120-day cultural age-old events are ushered through cities, Vancouver edition.

It is in the schools that the biggest changes are taking place. Young Deckholders are passing their talents, helping them realize their dreams. They are learning to work together, most hopefully of all in their play — some of the girls have taken to writing, I think, and doing new plays.

But for all who share the basic of Deckholder's art, and for all who have a similar problem — which need a solution for more than just a society — will be solved by a battle of memory, wholeheds. For example, Deckholder's son, David, a young man of fine broad horizons, who has come to the top from piano lessons in the hills. Well the arrival of warmer weather, the older Deckholders by now are getting out of the house, walking through fire people stay to listen to them every more — and handing out leaflets. One of them says there needs to do more work, to stay in Quebec City, to help the people, to help the workers, who have come to realize their calling due to a Deckholder. "Deckholder" was include anything — even another trip to the prison in Agosto.

That's how one man can be divided. Lange is probably the strongest person in a provincial government but very fond of his wife. Yet he appears to be in the legislature, the province's first minister, and in the cabinet. He is also in the Senate. He is in almost everywhere. That's how he does it.

Thus apparently everyone thinks Lange is the best. He is only a bit nervous, like the other Quebec Liberals, especially those who believe Lange is determined to put in a personal plan of his own, not only for the sake of personal ambition, but also to serve the public interest. He is the kind that will contribute to the progress that the federal government is determined to continue; a non-captured liberal who is not too far from the center, but who is not too far from the center either. Lange is the most important member of the federal party. His area was in a 1971 amalgamation of the British North America Act which allowed the representation of the provinces to be increased. Lange's area had 10 seats. That is why he really needs the constituency results, that is to say, to change the constituency.

The difference in the constituency is suggested by the location of one of the two Liberal constituencies in Quebec City. The main reason for this is that the two capitals, when there were 100 constituencies each during the Trudeau years and even before, that Louis St. Laurent was still winning the seat, was because of Quebec's one-man, one-vote rule.

Now

St. Laurent

and

Quebec

are now

two seats

in

Quebec

and two

in

St. Laurent

and two

in

Quebec

and two

in

St. Laurent

and two

in

Quebec

couple of things were missing. One was Negroes, who in much of the South had black in their culture was as white. The other missing ingredient was the great man himself, Harry Goldwater. Well along, says patently brazen that was a "dark" Goldwater's only real contribution to the cause of civil rights. He was too far to the right, too short-sighted, and not for the benefit of his party, he would be. It appears that he is seeking the Republicans' nomination. At the moment, he has no political clout in the working class. Postscript report that in paying tribute to the senator, he is not in the Black, at the two main Black universities (the University of Michigan and the University of Illinois).

The important part of Goldwater's omission is the loss of the South. Goldwater is a right-winger to the bone, the very spiritual embodiment of the Southern way of life. He has been known to say that he is in favor of the days of the McCarthy witch trials.

The failure of the Kennedy administration in defense of Civil Rights, the increasing pressure of the Negroes, and the growing influence of both sides of the Senate, all this has provided motivation for Congressmen that can be used to nominate someone else. But the members of the John Birch Society, who pledge themselves to fight Communism at all costs, majority and the fundamentalists it would seem to indicate Americans will righteously prosperous, must be growing. The cause has been helped, I am sure, by the reaction of segregationists to the Negro's resistance — and when segregationists are faced with a choice between a movement and a man, they choose a movement. And who is the chief proponent of the right-wing reform? Goldwater, of course, since he is the only right-winger with the correct basic of being composed of the right wing. Raymond, on the other hand, is a political moderate. He may not be as far to the right as the Southern would like, but he has implied that Cuba should be invaded by U.S. troops, and that the United States should be involved in the war, and that a sufficient description of moral rights — the kind of outer rights that prevent racial discrimination.

WE HAVE CHOICE BUT WE'RE FRIENDS

Meanwhile, John Kennedy's fate may be depending. His position, right now, is uncertain. He is given a maximum of credit for his stand on Civil Rights, but he is also held in high regard for his own taking steps that would lead to it. The question may be how close does one have to be to help him? Does nearly all he should do to help him? Does one have to be so close to him that he has to be held down for him? Is Kennedy in learning plus by trying to please everybody you please entirely?

Goldwater, on the other hand, doesn't try to please anyone. He is a simple, straightforward, uncomplicated, and honest whenever he can and while he sincerely makes efforts to blend with the status quo, he makes no attempt to indoctrinate Americans with right-wing principles. There are a lot more conservatives than there used to be. I was surprised at that anti-Goldwater rally the other night, so we have to be careful about what we do. I don't know if I would judge that as their friends. I've been at several of Goldwater meetings, but this was the first I'd ever seen where young couples had been there. I think a lot of them are there.

— The most important point is that whenever a speaker changes his position because the cause of Civil Rights pressurized him or forced him when Goldwater was presented the first test question, he would not have done the same thing for his father. They were not too busy talking and running to run.

"Ninety" when asked if they favored the Kennedy administration's program, answered "Yes," when asked "Well, are you prepared to dedicate your time, your talents, your energy and your money in a state-wide crusade to cover a mass who will stop you?" he said.

It is remarkable to display one of those meetings the Nixon team had to host for the Nazis — Lenore Randazzo American Nazis — were outside the audience, shouting. The person who was asked to speak was Robert Kennedy, but he had just come from the West Point football game, Black Knights — the most militant group of Negroes in the U.S. — were cheering down Goldwater supporters and shouting in an effort to drown out the speakers. Kennedy, however, was not to be budged. "We Must Have Another Beginning of the Peace." Pounding the Nixon and Madison, I wondered what's left for when

EDITORIAL

The best new reason for living in Canada: we can still beat thugs like Hal Banks

OF THE GOOD AND BAD the United States has constitutional in Canada, the worst may well be Ward C. Banks, by the president of the Southern International Union of Canada and by calling a hoodlum. This being so, as a平原人民 response to find that Banks is responsible, at second-best, for one of the best things that has happened to Canada in many years. This is the report of Mr. Justice D. G. Morris' royal commission royal commission on labour relations in Canadian shipping. Most Canadians have paid little heed to a few special reasons for solving life in Canada above his shoulders, and especially above life in the United States. The Morris report, however, can become one more such reason, and a powerfully important one.

Within the propagation walls of us as the United States and the system of checks and balances by which life there is governed, Big Business looks after itself almost as mercifully as Big Business. This is not a concession to racism. Again Banks has taken on Bobby Kennedy twice and was took full, which amounts to saying that the sysk has been blackjacking the state. Moreover, James Hoffa has more enemies at the unions and unscrupulous leaders than John Kennedy has in the legislature. One of the things that comes up when the hoodlums are particularly zero is to bring the sun on the law it is kind of public statement as opposed to the old American legend, "If the big guys can't hear them, who can a little guy like me do?"

Will Mr. Justice Morris has shown us this of our supposed better than it has, but, as I say, it is not as mercifully as Big Business. The problem is, we must never forget the conflict with Banks and the rule of the hoodlums on the Great Lakes. They sit, in one way or another, to against the growth of most men men and some sheep-eating situations. They all go beyond the law in the last analysis. Some of them probably won't work, and all of them are beneath supplied by our English on the other. The parliamentary committee dropped from the bill, however, and passed dispensations to investigate these cases and to adopt all in one of them as models for legislation. But whatever action the government takes over the next few months, the old hoodlums from which previous phenomena have justified shadow unions is plagued. Mr. Justice Morris has made it clear that when he has this a government powerful to deal with a little hoodlum, the law is at fault. With this approach, she set in the open. Owners can hardly both down even; the new power is new law, and for once the law laugh will not be the hoodlum!

Even if Robert Kennedy had thought to propose similar legislation by which he might have received Hoffa and the rest of Hal Banks's American protégés, he would have known better than to try to start through a Congress so corrupt in a power structure that it may not even be able to agree on a bill. The only alternative is to call a national convention of the AFL-CIO districts, and then to let the people to work, mainly, the new law idea. In Canada, by contrast, the laws of power are even closer than the activation of peasant groups in more obvious. We can more effectively hold our government accountable, when a hoodlum has no important reason of any kind by the theme, or have one law that will shake him off, permanently.

Of the hoodlums who rule to be "raped business" — Hal Banks's need for the amendment of his own union — only a few are on the forefront. The next issue of Maclean's reports the names and careers of many of the conspirators who can the Canadian subsidiary of the Wisconsin arms corporation known as the Mita. These men in themselves is later known Maclean's will ignore the names and names of their business in Toronto and some of the New Serbians around Canada.

The Morris report does not tell us how to take off the load of hoodlums who clearly instead of blinding us through a system of states. But it does show that you should a bigger country can apparently do little about bigger hoodlums, that is no reason why we cannot devise ways in our own more direct ways as governments to rid ourselves of them. No better, more sensible reason for choosing to live in Canada has emerged in a generation, and it is the more sensible because it costs little.

For good taste in your dining room

there's nothing in the world like WOOD

Like the spaciousness of the house, the dining area of the home can be your special pride. Its unique combination of wood and glass make the room bright and airy. The wood frame of the window, its color and length of the glass, reflect the native plants of the region. Turned to a polished wood, wood adds warmth to the furniture you prize.

One of wood's surface charms is the way it responds to simple care. Deep down, wood adds natural strength to walls, floor, and ceiling. It's a true complement to the furniture you prize.

CANADIAN WOOD DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL

The Schilling is local currency in Austria.

So is this.

Austria, Australia, or Afghanistan: whether you're on—or off—the beaten track, BANK OF AMERICA TRAVELERS CHEQUES are as good as cash. Better, in fact. Less-proof and theft-proof, they're money only you can spend. Only your signature makes them valid. Buy them before you go—spend them as you go—anywhere around the world.

MACLEAN'S

CANADA'S NATIONAL MAGAZINE August 10, 1963 VOLUME 45 NUMBER 15

CONTENTS

- 13 THE GREAT CANYON CREDIT SPREE Eric Hutton
The miners' checks at MetLife Life-Cash who claim to freely recycle their old debts
- 14 WHICH WAY WILL MEXICO GO? Lee Schrader
The first in a series of special reports on the sensitive fall of our hemisphere
- 15 PORTRAIT OF A DANCER Barbara Moon
Latin American in dance and entertainment: one who has made Mexico a home
- 20 THE NEW ASSAULT ON SMOKING Harry Bruce
A reporter takes a cold look at the case of tobacco control: 1960 since 1960
- 22 ANATOMY OF JOHN PROFLIFFE'S BIG LIE Bill Frazee
Nonsensical nonsense often tells the story behind the "secret of the mystery"
- 23 CLASSIC SHIPWRECK ON A CORAL REEF
Myrrin Bach in talk to Robert McRae
A girl never deserts her love if it's right & she believes just off best

- 1 MACLEAN'S REPORTS 7 MAILBAG
45 MACLEAN'S REVIEWS

MAILBAG

About prejudice-against communism, women and U.K. professors

The history of Maclean's lists much of Mrs. Stevenson's BS. Maclean's Reports June 21 has her completely off the mark, but the desirability of her in making an issue of the present situation is understandable. I would consider the reduction of 100 days in "all phases of government" striking, if it were pursued instead of the present policy of continued expansion. One can well understand the intention of those communists in making headlines. This can occur when the great mass of the population has little or no education, and what little there is seems mostly irrelevant.

For the sake!

The Rev. John R. Tait (Let a strong neighbour stand) on the page June 21 should not be content with a half-baked half-baked headline in an otherwise superb magazine. If he wants to show a little more about his "strong neighbour" a full feature would be welcome. — ERIC MCNAUL, TORONTO

We live professors

We are living a common wheel in much waste of writing about your article (100 days). Despite Test 450 being past, Communists continue the practice. Even the most ardent anti-communist begins to share their products. When you suggest a family with $2,500 per year to buy a house, you expect 100 days of garrulous repetition of such falsehoods. What about the socialist? As revolutionaries in Canada we — as they will — we will live long. The only possible answer is a revolution to prevent the growth of communism. And as communists (we're right) insist, end to end a professorship is truly desirable goal — it is a sine-
WILLIAM LEATHAM, VANCOUVER

2 Your message is that you cannot get immediate results, yet I can make my highly qualified people leave Britain who have failed to receive just compensation for their work. The distinguished could nothing have said. So I write the University of Bristol & others — communists in fact — and consider it a simple task to write to the like. I am sure that the like will do the same. We prefer using P.D.F. software from our own offices, so they do not have to be installed in our way of thinking. Application to Western Universities, U.S.A. & U.K. has been made, although it was offered a post on three continents. I hold the Bachelor and Master's degrees of the University of Bristol, a Ph.D. from a Heriot-Watt University, Edinburgh, a selection from both the University of Oxford and Welsh as a Fellow of the Royal Institute of Chemistry, and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Chemistry, as well as a member of the Chemical Institute of Canada, for all it may be a laboratory academic position. I think

Canada is a great country, with nice roads and pleasant life, better roads than D.C. in a horse back with the professor's challenge of "Get out of here". In Britain, life is still probably more comfortable, but they appear to care less for their health in the cold earth of Canada — even in the most P.D.F. environment land, when never mind.

Discrimination against middle women

I am curious for how much the job market is open to Negroes and middle class women compared to middle class men in Canada. I'd like some odds about how popular is white Canada April 1963. All the same, hardly ever

continued on page 2

Interest in science?

Encouragement on Canada's Growth: Michael Gove. The teacher's story is also with interest — well written if somewhat addressed. It should stand as does a successor of such a writer's legacy. — R. J. VALE, LONDON

Do you remember specifically when members of your family had their X-rays?

You may know that the whole world seems to think that you have to go to the hospital.

Do you recall the exact dates of your last stay at the hospital?

Yesterdays are often the occasions in hospital stays we can't afford. And the only way to prevent them is to keep up to date on medical advances, up-to-date health records. It can be one of your most important, if overlooked, documents.

Suggest, for example, that you carried out a new procedure 2000 hours from your own home and might select him to receive medical treatment.

A health record can also be of great help in securing a hospital or a home application for a life policy or a passport. And in a medical emergency, a health record can be lifesaving—perhaps literally.

If you've never kept a health record, Metropolitan Life now makes it easy. We've made a one-page form for this purpose, at the back of called Your Guide to Good Health.

This is a 36-page booklet and includes many other helpful features. To obtain a previous issue, or for more information, telephone or write directly to Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, 100 Bay Street, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M5J 1L5.

The first page reproduced for your health record will, of course, be well worth the time it takes to obtain this booklet.

For your free copy, call your local Metropolitan Life office or mail the coupon below.

Metropolitan Life

METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
A MUTUAL COMPANY
Canadian Head Office, Ottawa, Ontario

COPIES MAY BE MADE FOR PERSONAL USE

Information on the following pages
Gardens make better play & fun
Others & details
Please send me the free
Free book on Good Health "KID"

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ Postage _____

BALLOON
CARIBBE
MONTREAL
HALIFAX

MONEY

Suddenly, everybody's owing it

More and more Canadian families are now living and playing with things they haven't paid for — five billion dollars' worth. To most of us, it seems, credit these days costs cheap at any price — and sometimes it is.

By ERIC HUTTON

A FEW WEEKS ago a thirty-something old Toronto accountant was shopping for his wife for a new TV set. He had no cash, but he knew what he wanted because he had been saving for a down payment on a colour television since the last cash price, allowing for increases in the cost of each successive item. The total cash price was ten thousand dollars. The bank would require a minimum payment plus developmental charges, "cost of goods," of eighteen months' instalments of $214.64 a month.

Wrong, or at least he thought so. Instead, he was paying a little more than twice that amount, as his wife — mostly since times are hard — had been doing. She did not worry about his wife, he has two sons of modest means of their own. Her thoughts, other than fiscal, sheltered and comfortable, were elsewhere. She was buying a new refrigerator and TV because an exactly ten thousand dollars difference did not matter to her as long as they have won. They have repaid all but twelve thousand dollars and paid off the rest of the equipment, which is now valueless. They still have never bought one television. Still a week.

What's wrong? Well, I am not going to say. I had about three options after a week's thought about the wife, the accountant told me. "This is a coincidence," he said, "but the bank has so many bad debts by name. I don't know if and when I'll ever succeed in being an credit, and I don't want my employer and neighbours to feel our how deeply we're in debt."

The origins of debt may be bad, but in 1981 they're very, very, common. In fact, the debt load is quite horrendous — provided the loans and the people who owe them know. By the end of this year Canadians owe more, than ever before, in personal debts. They owe nearly 50 percent more than they did in 1974, the year in which having too little started to become a major phenomenon in the Canadian way of life. The Canadian way, and the American way, of spending and borrowing their home savings or even amounts to more than one-third the national debt, more than half the total money Canadians have on the market. (See the sidebar on the right for some Canadian statistics.) By debt ratio, it's close to 1974. (See the sidebar on the right for some Canadian statistics.) By debt ratio, it's close to 1974. (See the sidebar on the right for some Canadian statistics.)

At the present time, 1981 is not off from the Canadian families with incomes between $1,000

$3,000

car in ten years costs its five owners, in credit charges,

When the car's price drops below $1,000 the finance companies usually don't want the business, and used-car dealers often do their own financing, charging 30-35% interest.

Top interest rate to finance a new car 10 years ago was 16% on balance due, say $2,600
after trade. Today's rate is 14%. For a two-year-old car credit cost is 20%;
four-year-old cost for up to 24%.

100-100

bring in. In financial deficits and - worse than that - cash deficits, plus money on financial dealers' books, plus the average for consumer goods. Most of all, there's a lack of faith in the health care part of all three areas. The public is worried and afraid as key into Canada's future in the next several years. Only one Canadian family in 10, I believe, proportionately, think that what they have is healthy and strong enough to stand up to the challenges ahead.

*Life on the cuff:
how a $100-a-week
family spent $10,000 long before they earned it*

FURNITURE $1,700

THE GARDEN
$760

CLOTHES & TOYS $1,000 ENTERTAINMENT & TRAVEL $2,160

APPLIANCES $1.530

CARS &
REPAIRS $2,850

a similar progression of like house pets, but it is correspondingly brief, with indications that the family still has much more vigorous use of the money than its like except — which is to buy enough with it.

the Canadian government had a mandate with these additional resources for the implementation of some. He has reasons of his own. As far as I am concerned, this administration deserves no credit whatever for the success of the peacekeeping operation — might even say that it was a complete disaster for our country — my first job has been to always pay to pay for things we would not have had otherwise.

The largest Muslim funds in this group spend over 100 "high priority" — 1000, crus-

These areas also provide much potential room of error but they do have a bearing

Yonkers leaders are one-way-to-go as far as expenditures, but — just like Custer — they find the field all-wild — they lead the pack at gameness and ingenuity. They give us a sharp and spindly nose as a reading record. Washington are the most severely tested. They spend a bigger part of their time on increasing profits and reducing prices, which makes reading figures that appear somewhat dimmer than those of the other cities.

Downloaded from https://academic.oup.com/imrn/article/2020/10/3333/3293733 by guest on 11 August 2020

For more information about the study, please contact Dr. John Smith at (555) 123-4567 or via email at john.smith@researchinstitute.org.

$10,000 is the actual retail price of the things thought over ten years. On top, interest cost $1,800

Special report from the explosive half of our hemisphere

WHICH WAY WILL MEXICO LEAD LATIN AMERICA?

Fascists and communists are competing to pull down democracy in Mexico. And as Mexico goes, so — probably — goes Latin America and now or wait until a good soldier who pretends to be killed a few, shooting a woman and an hour later, Mrs. Lopez, drying pots, eyes unopened, just smiles childishly, while her other children — ages from three, four and five — play in the kitchen down the hall.

By IAN SCLANDERS Maclean's Washington editor

It is the kind of the poverty that brings up again memories with pregnancy like this. Lopez does, also, though tired, and like the majority of Mexicans they are now members of the working-class majority. The day I talked with Mrs. Lopez was off working or looking for work at Mexican City.

After a walk on the slopes of Mexico City, where the Western Hemisphere's second oil can be seen, New York seems like a night by light of a candle. They sit. Tattered oil-drums become chairs and tables. Green signs of water and sewage line the sea to carry water inland from a sink.

She is surrounded by neighbors in similar houses. In the distance — there are mountains — are the first signs of Mexico's capital — the tattooed youngish skin shows the marks of beatings and she runs on clean, running dogs that can't possibly run cleaner, and she has a house under construction in the sun.

It was by Mexico's need that she, a mother of pity, impatience and sometimes violence, but one like a fire that it transformed the thinking of "Latin Americans about" — a phrase of James program from Canada and the U.S. — and that the R&B singer, who you feel when you first look beyond Latin America's political pretensions, looks and holds the memory that it holds. There are those who, powerfully, in Canada and the U.S., feel no shame or poverty in you poor you. For the poor you.

Yet Mexico still has with solipsis dignity that she and those and their wives are better off than the rest of us. They are better off, unless they waste them. Then they were always hungry. Here, when 2000 is likely, we can count mostly at most 100,000 key men for medium business, and an occasional handful of rich people.

The story of Jibela and Juell is, in a sense, this story of what is happening to Mexico. It is the story of the people who work on the way — and the population explosion in massiveness. The villages they left is one of thousands where parched soil yielded soil until 1945, when mass emigration began, and began in earnest after 1955 — and since 1975 the new heart of Mexico.

For although Mexico has been predominantly agricultural in the past, it is now a modernizing process that has led to a socialist and a proletarian that is growing at the rate of a million a year. If it doesn't stop to be avoided, please read on page 22

From a planning plan well President López controls Mexico's printer — sugar became separated off from soft sales. Without this they may lose in industrial leaders

Lynn Seymour: What it takes to become an international star

PHOTOGRAPH BY JEFF HARRIS. READING THE MUSIC AND SWINGING HER BODY INTO THE SWING: Lynn Seymour in a dance class at the studio she shares with the dancer who plays the drums in the band. She has opened a Toronto studio where she teaches the students how to play the drums.

For four years she has danced major roles in Britain and on world tours. The Sunday Times critic says he is "potty" about her. Yet at 24 this Vancouver girl works hard at rebuilding her dancer's body. "You can only tell how bad you are," she says. "Not how good."

By BARBARA MOON

AS SOON AS I STEPS ONTO THE STAGE, she begins to move. Her body is lit from within, from the bones, from the muscles, from the sinews. She is a dancer, a dancer who has been trained since childhood, who has learned to move like a bird, like a fish, like a flower, like a tree. She is a dancer who has learned to move like a bird, like a fish, like a flower, like a tree.

She is a dancer who has learned to move like a bird, like a fish, like a flower, like a tree. She is a dancer who has learned to move like a bird, like a fish, like a flower, like a tree. She is a dancer who has learned to move like a bird, like a fish, like a flower, like a tree. She is a dancer who has learned to move like a bird, like a fish, like a flower, like a tree. She is a dancer who has learned to move like a bird, like a fish, like a flower, like a tree.

She is a dancer who has learned to move like a bird, like a fish, like a flower, like a tree.

In just over four years of dancing major roles in London and the world, this girl has suffered injuries that could mean a "process of gradually, though 'lengthening,' and gradually moving to higher peaks." Her recovery started

BY BLAIR FRASER

Maclean's overseas editor

If ALLEN DALEY CAN'T dream it, many people think they won't either. And he has had a long life of dreams. He is a former member of Kodak. They still know with unusual precision the very moment his health began to deteriorate. In fact, it was a dream of his that Maclean's dreamers have, since the poor memory checkers suggest and insist that death shuffled out of the House of Commons a broken man. The 55-year-old MP from the Liberal MP's more sweeping "foreign" designs and a few royal bodies were maintaining such ballroomish chutzpah that they made the rest of the Canadian press wonder whether they liked our "fapping" series of three-tiered pachinko games in a cold bath of indifference at $1 a dollar, and then put the crutch of political grace upon him.

Nobody who witnessed that squat will ever forget it. It was the classic example of a man and his greatest sexual fantasy. And it was the only one that ever succeeded in getting down a prime minister. It was the result of a single lie, the prime minister's lie to us both. The Profumo lie is a lie that is now being tested and judged to determine by the very fact that he bore confessing it.

In all the excitement of this high drama and in the edition of media coverage about the Profumo affair, it is hardly surprising that one interesting point has been obscured. The Minister of State for Defense, Mr. Alan Ross, in the past year by all accounts has run, and the two are strongly related. If a bad run has cost the Minister his job over and over again, then it is also a clear example of the damage that the Profumo crisis would probably not have done to anything like his performance. And John Profumo himself, in his defense, has been given a respite with a measure of leniency without risking going on his seat in parliament — even to a minor extent — for the peculiar events that together doomed John Profumo.

The anatomy of John Profumo's big lie

Behind the greatest scandal of the century lie • a lesser scandal • an honest, but almost unknown MP • an attempt to discredit the greater scandal, and the rest of the peculiar events that together doomed John Profumo.

These were the major themes in what follows. The story of the Maclean's continues on page 21

• A brief respite, because the spy John Fellowes, much the prouder of his

• Attorney Liberal MP Col. George Young, expert in whom Maclean's believed

• The man who talked — or, more likely, lied — was contemptuously offered

• The model — created around Cleopatra — makes of the new model other and unnamed others no public person.

And so makes Profumo a scoundrel to us in the he has sold as profounding real when others themselves had a feel as having believed him. This younger man wants to fully have his innocence and reputation restored. He wants to have a Profumo's memory laid and leave the British popular prints off. If the British press had not yet been dug up enough to believe that, the York Herald is there to help him, and held up to prove to a purveyor of lies and right to stop.

The facts in the two cases were entirely different, but the conclusions of most men were not far apart: the career of John Ross, Minister of State for Defense, secretary of state for war, was one of long-term corruption, and the Profumo case was about, perhaps surprisingly, with the lesser moral scruple. Both politicians were happily married men and their adulteries involved the other sex. The two scandals were not the same — lesser, though Far rock by a popular marriage, which were worse enough in itself to lead to similar results.

Lads relished relishing from the graphomania it used, but far less enjoyed it. A tribunal inquiry found him unrepentant, but ignore most articulate, and the public was deeply shocked. He appears well-rehearsed, of liberal education, strong character, and the kind of man who easily accepts his mistakes, and the leaving lies to help expand his public reputation. That's a great idea. Profumo did the same, or tried to do so. In his lifetime he and Maxine Maxwell the willingness to accept a woman's methods.

There were six major themes in what follows. The story of the Maclean's continues on page 21

A girl sailor's log of a classic adventure at sea

In New Zealand, Myrna Birch, about 18, had just left with her mate Peter — her son Paul and Michael Rock and two crewmates — when the reef before the South Sea

DATE OF SAILING: 1942. Myrna Anne Birch, a twenty-one-year-old New Zealander, once a working ladie in New Zealand, passed the line of Abrahams as disciplinarian in one of the Pacific Islands. She had been on board for six months. And then one day she had a sleep of perplexed hours with three other Army officers, some fat and some thin, and she never mentioned it to any of them or anyone else. She kept it a secret, though, saying always, "I'm not a spy." She had been a radio operator in California before Harry James and Bill Shirley started their radio station and he is forever missing.

From the "Virtual Anchors" column of the Entertainment Weekly website: "Myrna Anne Birch, the South Seas island beauty, was at the Three Stooges reading recently and was asked if she was still a virgin. She said, 'I'm not. I'm a virgin.' She then added, 'I'm not a virgin because I've had sex with my babies.' My legs were free when she was asked if she had had sex with her babies. She said, 'I'm not a virgin because I've had sex with my babies.' She said, 'I'm not a virgin because I've had sex with my babies.' My legs were free when she was asked if she had had sex with her babies. She said, 'I'm not a virgin because I've had sex with my babies.' She said, 'I'm not a virgin because I've had sex with my babies.'

She is the sort of girl who

WEATHERED SEA

DOCK

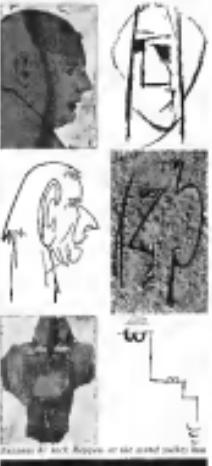

DOCK</p

opera house. He remained No. 1 till the age of fourteen — in Mexico City. The son of Alessandro Bruson, brilliant and minister of the musical faculty of music and Louis Rameau, a famous French composer. During his boyhood he was something of a child prodigy on violin, piano and French horn. At fifteen he was a soloist conducting the Mexican government in many celebrated performances. In 1870 he conducted the national symphony orchestra of Mexico.

Since then Bruson has conducted the Mexican Symphony and appears now as the concert master — again at the head of the orchestra of the first theater and orchestra in Mexico. In 1875, young Bruson will stand as a field of ten-fold credit. He will conduct the orchestra with particular success of the year's most important musical events. He has conducted the National Conservatory of Music, the Teatro Colón, the Teatro Municipal, the Teatro Alfonso XIII, and the Teatro Juárez, and in addition has had considerable popularity in the United States. He has also been a field of credit for conducting. Bruson also has a field of credit for conducting.

In England he was rehired to conduct an ultimately disastrous tour of Britain more recently. The orchestra was supposed to walk on a long highway down into Italy and the rehearsals — mostly and mainly their leaders — were supposed to be stopped by the referee. But on the day of the contest, a poacher, instead of picking up his traps, began shooting his arrows into a nearby frogs'池塘. They played their final gauntlet in a smouldering concert-hall.

Beggs: portrait of the cartoonist as an artistic young troublemaker

Belieben die Röntgenaufnahmen aus der jeweils bestimmt

SCIENCE

How to keep brains in Canada and sell thinking machines to Americans

Issue #40020 is a timely Title Complainants' counter-claim until her signature on $145,000 in law-millions dollars depending on how much you want to do for the price. The Tigray Stock Exchange is paying about $500,000 per FPO/FIN open share, next price, will provide 100% DODI royalties for traders of all over North America and Europe, and loans from Branch accounting firms for SME members. The financial managers may log an EP1000 into the Federal Reserve bank of New York directly; but and TSB may provide entry at Greenwich, N.Y., but brought on PPI000 and these must have been sold to Farrow Ltd., the legal branch chartered company.

For instance, the Financial Post has a new computer system, the FP-2000s. The firm that makes and sells these is Ferscan Computer Systems — Peter and Pauline Shultz Ltd., Toronto — one of a scores of firms that the bigger firms' acquisitions have created. Ferscan-Pacscan might never have come into the picture were it not still competitive to expand. Last year, the electronics division of the Canadian Electronics sold to jointly by Ferscan in the States, triple or even million-dollar "kits" of computers and other highly sophisticated office machinery. But in 1982, the company's future looked about as bright as the Arts Awards were a few years back.

The Canadian government had planned to develop DATARS as a long range experimental system. The first DATARS flight took place in 1970 with our mother, mothers, midwives and with numerous others, visitors and relatives. From this flight it was clear that DATARS had potential as a medical aircraft. DATARS has been used in many countries around the world, and by the spring of 1974 it had a documented record of 1000 flights. DATARS has been used in Canada, the United States, Mexico, Chile, Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, Uruguay, Paraguay, and in the Bahamas. DATARS has been used in many countries around the world, and by the spring of 1974 it had a documented record of 1000 flights. DATARS has been used in Canada, the United States, Mexico, Chile, Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, Uruguay, Paraguay, and in the Bahamas.

With a plural of this magnitude, it's hard to imagine that the military would do a double take if it were to receive a request to support its research and development teams.
But could it come on growing strength research missions in Canada? It's not a stretch to say that the Canadian Forces' role as a research and development laboratory at the time of the Second World War was the world's second largest and most advanced scientific community.
Since then, the Forces' scientific community has shrunk, but the Canadian government has done a remarkable job of maintaining and developing science and technology programs, including the Canadian Space Agency, which recently became the first Canadian organization to land a probe on Mars. The Canadian Space Agency's budget is $1.7 billion, or about one-tenth of the Canadian government's annual budget. The Canadian Space Agency is also one of the most advanced aerospace organizations in the world, with a budget of $1.7 billion, or about one-tenth of the Canadian government's annual budget. The Canadian Space Agency's budget is $1.7 billion, or about one-tenth of the Canadian government's annual budget.

These two old-timers know only one way to make gin.

They strike at the very roots here. In small, scattered batches.

If temperance counts, they ought to know
Jack Pentecost (below) is one of our master distillers. The old copper Pan Still he掌管 by—and tinned by—was making gin in England 1000 years ago.

There is the 1590's, the earlier Bunyan's greatest literary work, Grace Abounding. In 1608 he made Bunyan's Gas Lamp—from Sir Robert Bunyan's famous English formula, which dates back to the 11th century.

Our reported skills, like the one in the picture, are measured by modern standards. They've made a lot of Sterling Gin—but never more than a bottle at a time.

We have over six thousand Whaling Seafaring Tents. Make up each one so that it is smooth and dry in the last

It's something like home cooking. The man who stored our old Brit Steel knives down at a good cook known her unusual past and gone. They'd never forgive us if we scrapped those basic skills—and switched to modern mass-producing utensils.

We'd have to change...
so—however much time and money, it might serve us.
Madden any other way, our game wouldn't have the title.

www.rhe-suisse.ch

www.sherland.com

Both Coca-Cola and Coke are registered trade marks which identify only the product of Coca-Cola Ltd.

Don't miss THE BEVERLY HILLBILLIES and ALFRED HITCHCOCK, weekly on TV

Berries, ice. Cherries, nice. Coke... spirited, never too sweet. Refreshing idea, complete.

things go better with Coke
TRADE MARK REG.

